Consent for PET/CT SCAN

Information Regarding PET / CT Scans, IV contrast and FDG:

You will undergo a Positron Emission Tomography / Computerized Tomography ("PET / CT") scan which uses a radio-labelled tracer (a radioactive compound) called 18F-Fluoro-Deoxy-Glucose ("FDG"). FDG is a radio-labelled sugar. As cancer tissue has an increased ability to ingest sugar, the cancer tissue will take up the radio-labelled sugars in larger amounts than other tissues, and this uptake is seen on the PET / CT scan.

A PET / CT scan is considered to be a very safe procedure with few associated risks. As FDG is administered intra-venously, you may experience some minor discomfort usually associated with insertion of the IV into your vein (similar to that experienced with a routine blood test). Your doctor has asked that this Diagnostic PET / CT scan be performed using intravenous contrast material. This is an iodine containing solution that aids in the visualization of your organs and blood vessels, which helps in the diagnosis of pathology in various parts of your body. In order for us to administer this "dye" you must be informed of the possible risks involved.

The contrast media is given through the IV placed into your vein. Usually the contrast media is quite safe, but any injection carries the slight risk of harm, including injury to the skin, vein, or nerves and a slight possibility of infection at injection site. It can cause (rarely) complications such as hives, inflammation to the blood vessels and/or (very rarely) a life threatening interference with respiration or circulation. The Radiologist along with the clinic and x-ray staff are trained to treat these reactions. Most patients experience a sensation of warmth and occasionally nausea which lasts a few minutes. These are common effects and are not considered allergic reactions.

The amount of radiation exposure which you will encounter during the PET / CT scan is equivalent to the amount you would receive from other conventional scans that are commonly used in Canada. The additional radiation dose is approximately 11 millisieverts, which is similar to the radiation dose you would receive if undergoing a standard CT scan of the abdomen and pelvis.

THE EFFECTS OF EXPOSURE TO SUCH LOW LEVELS OF RADIATION IS EXPECTED TO BE MINIMAL, AS YOUR RISK LEVEL IS CALCULATED OVER YOUR ENTIRE LIFETIME. BY SIGNING THE FORM BELOW, YOU ARE GIVING YOUR INFORMED CONSENT TO THE PET / CT SCAN PROCEDURE AND THE ASSOCIATED RISKS AND POSSIBLE SIDE EFFECTS OF THE ASSOCIATED INJECTION OF FDG AND RADIATION EXPOSURE.

Governing Law:

You agree that:

- (i) all aspects of the relationship between you and INITIO Medical Group Inc., Premier Diversified Holdings Inc., and their respective affiliates, subsidiaries and agents, and their respective employees, directors, officers and any physicians or other independent health care providers related to or in association with INITIO Medical Group Inc., Premier Diversified Holdings Inc. including without limitation any medical or health care and treatment provided to you; and will be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the province of British Columbia and the laws of Canada applicable therein, without giving rise to any conflict of law provisions thereunder, and any actions in connection with or arising out of this Agreement will be commenced and maintained only in Vancouver, British Columbia.

I have read the above details and give my informed consent below. I give my consent to undergo scan. I have had the chance to discuss with my healthcare provider(s) the risks and benefits for my particular condition as described above. I understand that I may withdraw this consent at any time.
